DEFINITIONS

A LECTURE presents an overview of a scientific or cultural topic by an invited distinguished speaker, who summarizes relevant research and discusses implications for clinic practice, and extends our understanding beyond the usual limits.

A SCIENTIFIC PAPER is a scholarly presentation on a clinical or research topic, written expressly for the ASAP/ISAPP meeting.

A SYMPOSIUM is a three-hour or 90-minute session with several presenters delivering short presentations that focus on a specific topic relevant to adolescent psychiatry. It is designed to provide a more formal, didactic approach to the topic and present it from several points of view to stimulate discussion.

A COURSE is a formally organized educational program with a faculty of 1-4 individuals that addresses a specific educational goal, and uses structured teaching methods. Courses offer practical learning experiences that actively involve attendees and include the opportunity for informal exchange with the faculty. Courses either review basic concepts in a specialized subject area or offer advanced material on a circumscribed topic.

A WORKSHOP is similar to a course, but is less formal and focuses on practical issues and audience participation. These sessions typically involve brief presentations from individual panel members, followed by the opportunity for lively and informative discussion. This format provides for substantial audience participation.

An AUDIOVISUAL SESSION includes a videotape or film related to the educational and scientific goals of the meeting, with a presenter who leads a discussion.

POSTERS are informal presentations that provide presenters the opportunity to post new results, research advances, new program features or model program information.
